The History of American Medicine
From the Late Colonial Period to the Great Society (1765 to 1965)
Examiner: John Harley Warner
Examinee: Matt Gunterman
Date: September 2, 2009

I. General Overviews of American Medicine & Its Central Themes

II. Born in the Shadow of Learned Medicine & Baptized in the Fires of Egalitarian Idealism (1765 to 1845)
   A. Medicine outside the Marketplace
   B. The State of Orthodox Medicine
   C. The Origins of Therapeutic Dissent

III. From an Open Marketplace to Exclusionary Reforms (1845 to 1895)
   A. Practice & Professional Identity at the Height of the Open Market
   B. Slave & Southern Medicine
   C. Women & Medical Practice
   D. Women As Subjects of Medicine
   E. The Reforms of Hospitals and Medical Education

IV. A Hegemonic Model Emerges & a Nation Responds (1895 to 1965)
   A. Concepts & Uses of Scientific Medicine & Medical Technology
   B. The Twentieth-Century Ecology of Medical Identity & Practice
   C. Race, Ethnicity, & Medicine
   D. Issues of Ethics & Access

I. General Overviews of American Medicine & Its Central Themes

II. Born in the Shadow of Learned Medicine & Baptized in the Fires of Egalitarian Democracy (1765 to 1845)

A. Medicine outside the Marketplace

B. The State of Orthodox Medicine

C. The Origins of Therapeutic Dissent

III. From an Open Marketplace to Exclusionary Reforms (1845-1895)

A. Practice & Professional Identity at the Height of the Open Market

B. Slave & Southern Medicine

C. Women & Medical Practice

D. Women As Subjects of Medicine

E. The Reforms of Hospitals and Medical Education

IV. A Hegemonic Model Emerges & a Nation Responds

A. Concepts & Uses of Scientific Medicine & Medical Technology

B. The Twentieth-Century Ecology of Medical Identity & Practice

C. Race, Ethnicity, & Medicine

D. Issues of Ethics & Access

