What to Expect at
Your EEG Visit

McPartland Lab
Yale Child Study Center
On the day of your visit, you will meet us at the Yale Child Study Center.
One of our team will tell you and your parent about what will happen. You will sign a form if this is OK with you.

Everyone in our study gets assigned their own special number. So, your name will never be used in our research.
You will play some games and talk to a psychologist.
We will take you to the lab. We will play games on a computer and measure your brain waves.
We measure your brain waves with this special hat.

We will measure your head to figure out the right size.
We will cover you with a cape so you stay dry. Then, we will put the hat on your head. It will be a little wet.

We will wiggle the parts of the hat and add a little water to make sure it fits well.
We will put a small sticker on your cheek. You will play games by looking at pictures on the computer.
We’ll turn off the lights in the room and you’ll be asked to look at dots on the screen.

Then we’ll start with the games. You’ll get to look at some faces during the games.

You’ll do two of these games. Everything should take 45 minutes.

Afterwards, we’ll take the net off of your head, and you’re done!
Thank you for helping us with our study!

If you have any questions about your visit, please email mcp.lab@yale.edu

We look forward to seeing you!
